

This cage was originally placed in front of the main entrance to the International Autoshow. Since then, it has been seen at airports, downtown intersections and parking lots across the country.