

Some have said nothing could be done at 11 o'clock. And, wrong they were. They

Singh's battle to stay in Canada stands on 'precious little concrete evidence'

OTTAWA — The Supreme Court of Canada will hear the appeal of a Sikh immigrant who has spent the last 10 years of his life in Canada. The court will decide whether the government's decision to deport him is justified. The case is the most recent in a series of challenges to the government's immigration policies.

Global Warming: Science of climate change

OTTAWA — A new report from the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) shows that the world's climate is warming. The report is the most comprehensive and authoritative assessment of the science of climate change.

I spy something orange.

Look across.

Millions of tonnes of potatoes destroyed

OTTAWA — A devastating potato blight has struck across the world, threatening the food security of millions. The disease, caused by a microscopic fungus, has been found in Canada and is spreading rapidly. It is estimated that millions of tonnes of potatoes have been destroyed.

Look
right.

Conservative MPs 'smitten, very happy'

OTTAWA — Conservative Members of Parliament are reportedly very happy with the government's performance. Many have expressed their support for the current leadership and the policies being implemented. The mood in the House of Commons is described as positive and optimistic.

Look down.

Even in the heat of tomato E.C. talks

OTTAWA — Despite the intense negotiations surrounding the European Community (E.C.) agreement, relations between Canada and the E.C. remain stable. Both sides have shown a willingness to compromise and find common ground. The talks are expected to conclude soon.

Looks good.

TS-04