

Engraved bullet casings were dropped around schools and other youth hangouts to create buzz and direct kids to an anti-gang website. The website helps youth understand the dangers of joining a gang and offers them a way out.