

Guardian angels always descend from above.

When your life hangs in the balance, every second is critical. If the nearest hospital is fifty kilometres away, even an infection can leave you battling for your life. 18,077 people last year won't forget our name. For them, we were more than just an air ambulance. We were their hospital in the sky. Today, we connect 12.5 million people across Ontario to advanced medical care. So no matter where you are in this province, a guardian angel will always be watching over you. Find out more at ornge.ca
