

For three weeks in September, we had a ghost "haunt" an old Victorian house in Toronto. Thousands of onlookers saw her appear at various times throughout the night. She was illuminated by a holographic projector and programmed to perform forty different actions such as walking, looking down or skipping from window to window.